

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

Chat messages are communicated with a plurality of wireless, including one or more wireless devices, over corresponding communication links. The present invention determines link latency associated with communicating a message with at least one wireless device and adjusts transmission timing of chat messages based on the link latency in order to provide orderly communication of chat messages.

09/18/2009 10:50:30